I am working in several different types of settings including a maximum security forensic hospital, court clinic, and prison setting and have testified as an expert witness in many pretrial criminal forensic cases in Massachusetts. I am currently working on a research project investigating the assessment of mental retardation in death penalty cases. I have presented on the topic of Competency to Stand Trial in a Law & Psychiatry Clinical Forensic Case Conference in a Medical School setting and will be presenting my dissertation research in March of 2005 at the annual conference of the American Psychology-Law Society (in California).

Achievements of Graduates 1985-1998

After completing my internship in pediatric neuropsychology and child psychology at North Shore University Hospital in Manhasset, New York, I did a 2 year post doctoral fellowship at HealthSouth Braintree Rehabilitation Hospital, Braintree MA. I am now working in a private pediatric neuropsychology practice where I specialize in children who present with a combination of psychiatric and neurodevelopmental/learning issues.
Maintained a private practice which hopefully has helped many persons.
Developed, currently implementing LD/ADHD evaluations and training program at the counseling center. Responsible for training and supervising practicum students (doctoral level) and conducting assessments myself.
My private practice is my major achievement. I also hold two other licenses in NH- Licensed Alcohol and Drug Counselor and Licensed Clinical Supervisor.
I am working full-time as a clinical supervisor as well as trainer and supervisor of doctoral psychology interns in our training program. I have provided consultation and training to other professionals in the community and presented at a number of conferences on work with mentally ill sex offenders regionally.
Primarily, just establishing myself as a psychologist in a group practice.
Expanding my skills as a psychotherapist, including completing training in hypnotherapy and behavioral medicine (and currently completing training and certification in EMDR). Working in a variety of settings including: administrator/consultant for Riverside County, CA DMH; psychologist in a large medical group in Long Beach, CA, and currently (for the past 16 months) developing a private practice.
Completed post-doctoral training at Harvard Medical School with emphasis in trauma treatment. Worked as counselor at Wellesley college counseling center. Worked in providing community services to traumatized communities. Became licensed psychologist. Have presented at APA annual conference. Have been full-time core faculty member (teaching history and systems, psychodynamic theory and treatment, psychology of women, Psychological Assessment ,and worked as internship director, chair and member of CRP students final projects, supervision of students clinical work etc. at an APA approved doctoral clinical psychology program. Full time private practice providing quality services to community members particularly in the area of couples' treatment. In the process of co-authoring a book on couples' treatment
I have established my reputation as a specialist in the area of childhood anxiety disorders doing cognitive behavioral therapy. I have done many presentations and have been interviewed by newspapers as an expert in this area. In addition I am a primary investigator in a major research project studying ADHD and Substance abuse disorders where I designed the cognitive behavioral protocol for the study. I also have a faculty appointment at Harvard University and I supervise psychology interns and post-docs. Although much of my work is clinical, I look forward to hopefully having more time to write and publish in this New Year.
Recognized expert in child abuse assessment and treatment. Appointed to faculty of National Training Program on Effective Treatment Approaches of Sexual Abuse
Founding partner in a group practice Spearheaded the introduction of on-site psychological services into primary care medical settings in Connecticut.(10 years) Assistant Clinical Professor, Yale School of Med. Affiliate professor: Graduate Institute of Professional Psychology, University of Hartford (10 years) Special Master: Regional Family Trial Docket, Middletown Superior Court, Middletown CT. (8 years)
I am currently in semi-retirement and I no longer am employed by VA CT Healthcare System. While at VA CT Healthcare System, I developed and was Administrative Director of the Women's Health Center. I was a staff psychologist. I was an Assistant Clinical Professor in Psychiatry at Yale School of Medicine. I was Clinical Director of the Post Traumatic Stress Disorder Clinic at the National Center for PTSD at VA CT Healthcare System. I was briefly Director of Training in Psychology at VA CT Healthcare System. I lectured regularly at Yale School of Medicine and presented at Yale School of Medicine Grand Rounds.
Obtained A.P.A. Certificate of Proficiency in Treatment of Alcohol and other Substance Use Disorders. Given training and workshops on alcoholism and the elderly to Health Care Agencies

and on local cable TV. Helped start Allied Health Care, a multi-site, multi-discipline psychotherapy corporation on Cape Cod. Actively participated in this for about eight years, then withdrew to concentrate on private practice.
Established part- time private practice. Created health and Clinical Service Department at Plymouth Regional High School. Member of NH Mental Health Disaster Response Network.
A) Received my Designated Forensic Psychologist credential from the Mass Department of MH. B) I work in a correctional facility that is also an accredited psychiatric hospital performing forensic evaluations and providing treatment to mentally ill men C) I have a small private practice seeing adolescents and adults for psychotherapy.
Most significant achievements: Clinical director of a 110 bed psychiatric hospital; developed an array of mental health services increasing budget from 20 mil to 45 mil, 300 employees to 800 employees; positively influenced thousands of lives
Have worked to set up a correctional psychology/forensic evaluation rotation site in conjunction with the Southwest Consortium of Predoctoral Psychology Internship, an APA accredited internship consisting of a VA, UNM Hospital, and Indian Health Services. Currently, we have our first intern.
I taught at Antioch in the MA program for seven years: Individual Psychotherapy, Professional Seminar, Group Psychotherapy. I practiced psychotherapy in group and individual settings for 11 years.
Certificate of Professional Qualification in Psychology –ASPPB Regional Distinguished Service Award, Northeast Region of American Association of Pastoral Counselors Southeast Representative to the Vermont Psychological Association – 1993-currently.
I have worked on a small team creating a model for Crisis Debriefing within a community mental health center. In addition, post 9/11, worked on a FEMA grant. Most recently I have developed and implemented a model for an Urgent care Center which provides crisis intervention and psychiatry to patients in a large primary care group of 70 physicians in a rural setting where psychiatry is otherwise difficult to procure for patients in those practices.
I am heavily involved in disaster behavioral health. Volunteer and teach for American Red Cross. Recently, I received state grant to do Disaster Behavioral Health training.
Full time private practice, supervised several individuals, joined every managed care organization
Completed three-year program in somatically based trauma treatment (216 hours + supervision). Specialist in acute & chronic trauma.
Became director of the Counseling Center...other things related to this position too numerous to mention.
Promoted to President/CEO of State-wide rehabilitation agency. Consult on National projects
Maintained a solo practice in general psychology in a rural community in CT.
My first position post doc was a job at a MA state college counseling center. I was promoted to director and worked there for 12 years. During those years I presented on a number of issues at the national and regional college counseling center annual meetings and once at APA. My youngest child who turned 5 the year I entered Antioch (1986) graduated from Dennison University as a psychology major last May. Because I no longer had college tuition to pay, I took advantage of the early retirement incentive offered by the state. I now work in a 3 day a week private practice which is currently fully booked. I am happy with my career in psychology.
I'll just mention that I've found textbook proposal reviewing to be an unexpected source of professional pleasure and additional income.
Kindly go to www.dr.sandy.com and click on "about dr. sandy" My books are published in Japan, Italy, Canada, Germany, & England. My video series, "Ordinary Couples, Extraordinary Sex has sold over a million copies worldwide." I am the recipient of the Connecticut Psychological Association's (CPA) Award (1999) for "Distinguished Contribution to the Science of Psychology" and was honored as "Sex Educator of the Year" by the Sex Education and Information Council of Connecticut (SEICCONN). In addition to the two books I've written, I've also contributed to several popular books, am currently the relationship expert on WTIC 1080AM talk radio, and recently completed a TV infomercial for a natural alternative to hormone replacement for sexual enhancement.

I started the out-patient psych services and the behavioral medicine programs at Cape Cod Hospital. I had a successful private practice. I made a significant difference in the lives of many clients...per their feedback. I also had a practice as a life coach.
Became CEO of 2 Mental Health Agencies, two in Connecticut, 1 in Ohio ultimately managing organizations with a 15M+ budget. Also, Director of Public Sector Behavioral Health at Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Texas.
Director of Family Therapy for the Eating Disorders Program, Mass General Hospital, Boston, MA 1990-2001. Independent practice 1990-present Numerous workshops on Family Therapy for Eating Disorders Co-author on upcoming book on women's empowerment. Development of a new program on women's empowerment intended for broad distribution.
My principal accomplishments are in the clinical domain. I have initiated and directed many productive clinical programs, workshops, clinical trainings, and retreats. One program, The Art of Intimacy, has been ongoing for the past 9 years, and involves training and support in the art of human relationships. An outgrowth of this has been to facilitate a series of weekend Couples Retreats. Another outgrowth has been a series of workshops, called Fathers, Sons, and Brothers, to explore family relationship issues among men. These I have co-facilitated with my son, age 23 Another project has been the clinical oversight of Agua Viva, a collective of psychotherapists and body workers who offer intensive 3 day personal growth workshops.
Developed and implemented (X 8 years) trauma therapy program for children, adolescents, adult men & women, CMHC, Oregon Developed a trauma psychology practice, MD Opened my own practice 3 years ago. Developed a pediatric treatment & consultation team, and an adult dissociation consultation team. Performed hundreds of assessments (neuropsych, psychoed, psycho) in Oregon and Maryland. Joined Physicians for Human Rights and have performed numerous pro bono evaluations for victims of torture seeking asylum. Appointed associate professor at Georgetown Law School because of my work with refugees 2003 - current.
Was involved in research of Maine youth who sexually offend, which included some publications. I continue to conduct many forensic evaluations although my career is shifting to provide Intensive Short-Term Dynamic Psychotherapy (ISTDP). I am entering my fourth year of training/supervision with Dr. Habib Davanloo in Montreal. I aspire to teach and supervise ISTDP in the future.
Wrote The Taming of the Chew (Penguin 2002); became a member of the National Speakers Assn.; earned doctorate in Holistic Health; have traveled the US and Canada giving talks and workshops and doing book signings
Spent 9 years in community mental health becoming an outpatient clinical director. Directed the development and clinical supervision for an outreach mental health program in Worcester County for approximately 5 years. Now I am in private practice and spend some time doing organizational consultation
I have moved to North Carolina and started a mental health-medical practice. My husband is an MD and we work together in practice. I have several contracts with local schools and other agencies to provide consultation and training. My assessment practice has grown tremendously and I am doing neuropsychological and psychoeducational evaluations. I also do therapy, mostly with children, but am hiring other clinicians to provide therapy as I am planning on doing assessment, training, and consultation, mostly. I also would like to do more research. I currently have 3 clinicians working for me and several other clinicians in my practice who work on their own. We currently are looking to expand even more so and are looking into opening a satellite office. I am really happy in NC...the weather is great!!! My only daughter is about to graduate from Chapel Hill this spring and is applying to Ph.D./MD programs. Hopefully, in 10 years she will take over my practice!!
Helped develop and implement a UNICEF sponsored school-based trauma treatment program for children in Turkey after the 1999 earthquakes; -Sat on the clinical team for a 4 year research study headed by Bessel van der Kolk, MD that compared Prozac, EMDR, and placebo for PTSD survivors; -co-authored a published article in a peer-reviewed psychotherapy journal; -invited speaker by EMDRIA, the professional international association for EMDR -regularly supervise, consult, and teach to fellow professionals in area of PTSD treatment

Completed pre-doc internship with U. S. Navy Served a total of 5.5 yrs in Navy: Became Clinical Director of Alcohol Rehab Center with Navy. Joined U.S. Public Health Service and billeted to the Federal Bureau of Prisons. Implemented a female offender sexual abuse program. Implemented an APPIC approved internship within BOP. Specialized education in female serial killers. Team leader for Hostage Negotiation Team at FCC Petersburg. With USPHS deployed to World Trade Center 9/01. Part of USPHS rapid deployment unit. Deployed to hurricanes: Isabel, Charlie and Francis. Currently on a National Disaster Medical System (NDMS) training work group.
Built a solo private practice, and have managed to keep it going. Still (happily) crazy after all these years.
Four years of training at the Family Institute of Cambridge. Three years of seminars in psychopharmacology at Harvard Medical School, Department of Psychiatry.

Creative Projects or Ventures of Graduates 1985-1998

My most valued experience of the past 3 years has been my involvement in the rapidly burgeoning sport of women's hockey. One of the most valued (and unexpected) aspects of this experience has been the diversity of women who share this interest. We are gay, straight, married, single, engineers, lawyers, postal workers, teachers, nurses, HVAC repair persons, bartenders, students, scientists, car salespersons, college professors and hockey moms. I, however, win the award for the longest, most difficult to spell, job title (pediatric neuropsychologist). Our goalie is only 20, so we can't buy her a beer for a great game, and the oldest is getting very close to 60.
Last year at age 70 I began a semi-sabbatical year spending half of each month in Asheville, NC, while maintaining my private practice on Cape Cod the other part of the month. My time in Asheville is for prayer, reflective reading and volunteer service. The years of training at Antioch New England and work with clients have opened many new opportunities for service in the Asheville area. At age 71 I am looking forward to the many more opportunities life will offer.
Currently utilize animal-assisted therapy in my practice of individual counseling. I use my certified therapy dog with students to lower anxiety, as an assessment tool, and to aid with interpersonal process techniques. I have had a great response from the students/clients and the counseling center staff!
Not sure if you mean other than psychology, but that's how I'm going with this. I am doing much more with my photography, and recently had a couple of small shows in the area
I am in the process of co-authoring a book on couples' treatment that is based on a model that combines; use of multiple therapists, individual and couples' work, and explores each individual's core needs and behaviors as a factor of character structure. In our view character informs individuals' perceptual emphases and perceptual neglect. Essentially, individuals DO live in different worlds and it is very helpful to understand that about oneself and one's partner.
I am in the process of writing a book addressing the needs of children with anxiety disorders. I am also involved in a research study applying CBT to teens with ADHD and Substance Abuse (SA) and evaluating the benefit of Strattera in helping, in combination with CBT, to reduce SA in this population. I am also hoping to get research grants that have been submitted to get funded that would allow me I focus more on CBT with kids with OCD which is a very strong interest of mine. So far, money has not come through, but hopefully that will change! I continue I work also with kids with selective mutism, trichotillomania, OCDD, and tourettes and anxiety disorders which is very rewarding!
Continuing efforts to widen the scope of psych services in primary care settings. Parent coordination in high-conflict divorce...pre and post judgment
I have opened an art studio and I have been painting in earnest (landscapes, still life, oil on canvas). I have also been writing –a play and two children's stories. The wonderful experience I had at Antioch not only prepared me for a leadership role as a psychologist, but also paved the way for my return to my interest in painting and creative writing.
I'm now in my 70's and still going strong; I teach at several colleges/universities, and have recently completed the process of terminating all clients since I voluntarily chose not to renew my license as a psychologist last year. I volunteer in a children's group home as a consultant and occasionally teach the psychology portion of the training for CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocates).
Presentation accepted April 05, "Cultural Change in a Community-Based Residential Program" at conference Achieving The Balance: Best Practice for Managing Challenging Behaviour, Dublin, Ireland
I am way happy out here – the work is hard and good – clinically rich, ethnically diverse, very challenging. I live on Mt. Taylor, 11,000 feet high and the fourth sacred mountain of the Navajo people. We are between two reservations and there is a strong Native and Hispanic culture. I have two young mammoth donkeys, Maudlin and Matilda and am learning how to train them for trail riding (going to mule and donkey clubs and riding clinics). I am also teaching Intro to Psych at the local community college.
In my retirement, I finally took up fine art as the hobby I have always wanted to be involved in. I have been taking classes at the Sharon Arts Center, and have been working on portraits in oil for

the last year. For four years I worked as an active board member and participant with Habitat for Humanity. I am currently volunteering at Monadnock Hospital, have worked on a community newsletter; have been active in town planning for the future.
I am currently studying and practicing Buddhism and engaged in Vipassana meditation, which has been very informative to my private practice clinical work and research with PTSD
Received state grant to do disaster behavioral health training.
Ethnic Diversity Task Force of the Connecticut Psychological Association, as well as the Mentoring Subcommittee; founder of GIPP's Women's Research and Mentoring Project; currently working on a book, "The Zen of Grief: Living Graciously through Dying
I have been involved as a volunteer in GLBT youth programs. I have been an organic gardener for ore than 30 years and have a large successful garden
I wasn't able to toggle the "primary employment" categories to indicate that I teach undergrads half-time, and masters/doctoral students half-time. I am currently involved in developing teaching curricula that uses Harry Potter as an extended case study.
President/CEO of CW Group, which is parent company to CW Resources, Inc (a rehabilitation agency), Connecticut Enterprise Center (a small business incubator) and CW Enterprise(a temporary labor agency) I have collaborated with three other agencies in the U.S. to build a certified dairy and food packaging plant where we package dry food for Food Share, Second Harvest and for other countries. I am negotiating with federal government to package coffee for Puerto Rican farmers to better enhance their markets and wages. I have started a state-wide incubator network emphasizing start up business for recently graduated students interested in starting their own business. It takes a lot of organizational psychology skills to manage a large organization and to supervise a group of very talented and educated VP's.
In addition, I write the SexHealth column for the Connecticut Psychologist, am the "intimacy expert" for an exciting online websource for menopausal and perimenopausal women: power-surge.com; I created the sexual website content for the launch of sexualwellbeing.com (the online sexuality store for drugstore.com); lecture to a range of professional and consumer groups (e.g. OB-GYN residency training, New Britain General Hospital Series on "Intimacy and Maturity"; Grand Rounds at Waterbury Hospital affiliated with Yale University; Harvard University's Continuing Education Series on Couples & Intimacy, Sexuality Keynote for the American Academy of Laparoscopists and Gynecologists, etc.) On a personal note I'm married with a grown daughter who has recently graduated from law school. My husband, Rob Cooperman, (who is also an Antioch Graduate), and I live in Farmington, CT with our three beautiful standard poodles who are also my co-therapy assistants! I thank Antioch New England Graduate School, its faculty, staff, and student body for providing me with a solid foundation in the theory and practice of Clinical Psychology. Sandra R. Scantling, Psy.D., APRN, D.S.T. Advanced Practice Registered Nurse; Board Certified Specialist in Psychiatric Nursing; Licensed Clinical Psychologist; Ass't Clinical Professor of Psychiatry University of Connecticut School of Medicine; AASECT (American Association of Sex Educators, Counselors, and Therapists) Certified Sex Therapist, Diplomate in Sex Therapy.
I am currently the owner and innkeeper of a Bed & Breakfast in Hawaii. My mission here is to create an environment where people get reconnected with themselves, each other and the natural world.
Just taking this opportunity to tell you that my skills learned at Antioch were very instrumental in my success in the many areas of my professional life. I continue to be grateful that I had such a wonderful educational experience in the Antioch Doctoral Program. As a surveyor for the Joint Commission, I meet with a broad community of behavioral health organizations and the foundation upon which I base my competence was laid at Antioch. As noted above in the questions, I work only part-time (by choice) in the field of psychology. I decided to be more entrepreneurial in my later life and now own several child care centers in Texas. I mention this because my success in this business relates, in part, to some of what I learned at Antioch. I wish you well on your accreditation visit. Please say hello to Roger for me.
I am involved in a very creative venture developing a program on women's empowerment, but I am not at liberty to share any of the details at this time. Ask me in a year. It will be a great story. Best to everyone.

I am currently building my professional speaking business as a wellness specialist, recrafting my website and working on a second book.
National Disaster Medical System member of national training work group reviewing training requirements for DMATs, DMORTs and VMATS. Part of Function #8 of Federal Response plan. Fairly involved with Psychologists Prescriptive Authority. Will be attending an "invitation only" Division 55 planning conference in Orlando, FL in Feb 2005. Conference will be precursor for pushing Psychologist prescriptive authority at NDMS National Conference and the Commissioned Officer's Association (of the USPHS).
