Issue #36, September 12, 2012

Do you have news that should appear in the Community Bulletin? Please email it to Jan Fiderio (jfiderio@antioch.edu) and Susan Harlow (sharlow@antioch.edu).

Table of Contents

Briefly Noted

• Second Horace Mann Event Coming up September 14
• Communicating Science Weekend October 5—7
• AUNE...We’re Everywhere
• AUNE Alum Wins Prestigious NSF Funding
• Perpetual Food Pledge Redux at AUNE
• Faculty and Staff Comings and Goings
• Lots Happening at CROPP
• CPC Fellow Haley Stewart Stays on with Caucus in Washington

AUNE Out and About

Events

Profiles

The Community Bulletin will be published monthly, on the second Wednesday of each month. The next issue will come out October 10.

Briefly Noted

Second Horace Mann Event Coming up September 14
AUNE will hold the second annual 2012 Horace Mann Spirit of Service Awards dinner on Friday, September 14, at the Keene Country Club, in Keene, New Hampshire. Molly Kelly, New Hampshire state senator and a strong supporter of education, is the keynote speaker.
These three individuals will receive AUNE Horace Mann Spirit of Service Awards:

- Citizen’s Award: Charlton MacVeagh, retired banking industry executive, philanthropist, community volunteer and AUNE trustee
- Staff/Faculty Award: Shelley Viles ’92, (left) founder and director of the Center for Autism Spectrum Disorders and the ASD Certificate program at AUNE
- Alumnus Award: Floyd Nease ’88, executive director of the Vermont Association for Mental Health, Addiction and Recovery

Read more here.

Communicating Science Weekend October 5—7

Ecologists and authors Tom Wessels and Amy Seidl, (right) will be keynote presenters at Communicating Science, held October 5—7, at AUNE. The Communicating Science event will explore innovative ways to convey environmental and scientific information. An outdoor art exhibition in celebration of the twentieth anniversary of Whole Terrain, AUNE’s literary journal of reflective environmental practice, will be held in conjunction with the weekend.

Find out more here.

AUNE...We're Everywhere

Sarah Bockus’ trip to the Vermont Institute Of Natural Science (VINS) in Quechee, Vermont, last month to check out continuing opportunities for Environmental Studies (ES) interns turned up not one, not two, but four AUNE students and alums working at VINS. They are, from left, Sarah Sincerbeaux, a new student in Environmental Education-ES; Hannah Putnam, an Teacher Certification student in the education department; Katie Christman, ‘11, an Environmental Education-ES alum; and Calah Beckwith, an ES student in the Conservation Biology concentration.

AUNE Alum Wins Prestigious NSF Funding

Kelly Biedenweg, MS ’05, an alumna of the Department of Environmental Studies, has received highly competitive post-doctoral funding from the National Science Foundation as a Science Engineering and Education for Sustainability (SEES) Fellow. She will be funded for two and a half years of work with the Natural Capital Project.

Find out more here.

Perpetual Food Pledge Redux at AUNE

Perhaps you’ve gotten a little lackadaisical about your Perpetual Food Pledge over the summer. Perhaps you never got around to signing the pledge in the first place. Perhaps you’ve never heard of the Perpetual Food Pledge.
The Perpetual Food Pledge is a great initiative, promoted by the Department of Management’s Net Impact chapter, to boost donations to food banks and community kitchens. There are several food boxes around the AUNE campus where you can place donations for the Keene Community Kitchen. Since February 2012, the AUNE community has donated 503 pounds of food.

If you haven’t signed the pledge yet, find it here.

Faculty and Staff Comings and Goings

Comings....

Cheryl Lower, right, formerly in the Department of Management, took over the human resources generalist position in August, following the retirement of Natalie Milano. She is in charge of payroll and benefits administration, and will also work with Andrea Hodson on staffing, training, and other projects. In addition to thirteen years of work at AUNE, Cheryl has an MEd. from AUNE and a bachelor’s degree in computers and management from Franklin Pierce College.

Catherine Richardson, left, has joined the staff of the Department of Communications as marketing and communications assistant. A Surry resident, Catherine also supports her husband’s business, Richardson Home Inspection Service, and previously worked for Abbate Chiropractic.

Paula White moves from part-time administrative assistant for autism-related programs in the Department of Applied Psychology, to part-time administrative assistant at the AUNE Couple and Family Therapy Institute.

The Applied Psychology (AP) Department welcomes three new faculty members. In a newly created clinical faculty position, Cathy Lounsbury, left, is the new director of practica and internships. She will be responsible for site visits and arrangements with practicum and internship sites throughout New England for the AP master's and certificate programs. Cathy holds a doctorate from the University of Maine and is an experienced counselor educator and seasoned New England networker.

John Muldoon is a new teaching faculty member, and director of clinical training for the Clinical Mental Health Counseling (CMHC) program. An experienced faculty member for several years at Kean University in Union, New Jersey, John holds a PhD from the University of South Carolina, and is a licensed professional counselor with a strong background of teaching and clinical practice in substance abuse and addictions.

And we already announced Barb Andrews, associate professor and director of the CMHC Program, in the July Community Bulletin.
There are other changes in the AP department’s Marriage and Family Therapy (MFT) programs. Amy Blanchard is the new program director of the master’s program. Megan Murphy, right, is now program director of the PhD program and will continue to direct the AUNE Couple and Family Therapy Institute. The department thanked Kevin Lyness, core faculty member, for his years of service as program director of both MFT programs.

Goings…

Diane Kurinsky, core faculty in the Department of Applied Psychology, retired in August after teaching at AUNE for more than twenty years. She has served on the editorial board of the Journal of Mental Health Counseling, as editor of the North Atlantic Region Association for Education and Supervision newsletter, and is currently president of the Northern New England Association of Counselor Education and Supervision as well as being a national certified counselor. Diane will continue her private practice in Greenfield, Massachusetts.

Carlotta Willis, longtime core faculty and CMHC program director in the Department of Applied Psychology, retired in July. Rich Grogan, core faculty in the Department of Management, is leaving AUNE to pursue a Monadnock region-focused role with the New Hampshire Small Business Development Center. He will advise small businesses and entrepreneurs on everything from financing to marketing, while still teaching a class at AUNE. Sue Callaway, administrative assistant for the Education Department for the last three years, has left AUNE to pursue other interests.

Lots Happening at CROPP

There's lots of news from the Department of Clinical Psychology's Center for Research on Psychological Practice (CROPP) to start the new semester:

- Jim Fauth, CROPP director, is offering a series of cross-disciplinary learning opportunities in program evaluation this fall for matriculated AUNE and non-matriculated community members alike. Find out more here.

- CROPP has just been hired to help the University of Massachusetts-Lowell evaluate a three-year, campus-wide suicide prevention program.

- CROPP will assist the New Hampshire chapter of the National Alliance on Mental Illness in submitting a grant proposal in September to evaluate a pioneering intervention to reduce readmission rates among patients discharged from the State psychiatric hospital. If funded, this will be a one-year pilot project to commence in December.

- This summer, CROPP was invited to write the evaluation portion of a $30 million, four-year federal grant proposal to enhance New Hampshire's system of care for children's behavioral health issues. Funding decisions are expected in late September.

- Also this summer, Jake Austin defended his dissertation about the impact of integrating behavioral health clinicians into primary care settings on the job satisfaction of primary care providers. This is the first dissertation to emerge from our recently completed Integrated Care Evaluation project.
CPC Fellow Haley Stewart Stays on with Caucus in Washington

Haley Stewart, AUNE’s sixth annual U.S. Congressional Progressive Caucus (CPC) Fellow, who completed her fellowship in August, was immediately hired by the CPC to work for another year as senior legislative fellow. She will focus on environmental, labor, and women’s rights issues.

Read more here.

AUNE Out and About

An article co-authored by alumna Karin Hodges, PsyD ’09; two Clinical Psychology faculty members, Jim Fauth and Lorraine Mangione; and also Les Greene, PhD, has been published in the July 2012 (Volume 62, Number 3) edition of International Journal of Group Psychotherapy. The article is titled “Processes and outcomes in prevention-focused time-limited groups for girls.”

Mangione will present at Glory Days - A Bruce Springsteen Symposium in West Long Branch, New Jersey, on September 15. She will discuss “Psychological Theories of Grieving, Italian American Culture, and Springsteen's Work” during a moderated session on Springsteen and Morality, Absence & Loss.

Martha Straus, left, core faculty in the Department of Clinical Psychology, will present “Treating Complex Trauma in Children, Adolescents, and Families” at the Brattleboro Retreat in Brattleboro, Vermont, on September 14.

Charles Curtin, Environmental Studies (ES) core faculty, right, and Jessica Parker, ES doctoral candidate, will speak at Responding to the Call of the Land: Building a Community Supported Food System at Stonewall Farm in Keene and Peterborough on September 14-15. They will talk about the activities of the new transdisciplinary institute Collaborative Action, Research, and Policy for the Environment (CARPE).

Polly Chandler, head of the MBA in Sustainability program, is having a busy month. She was selected to be one of the thirty-five members in the 2013 class of Leadership New Hampshire. Classes begin September 11 and 12. She will also be part of the QS MBA tour, joining a panel on September 13, in Boston, Massachusetts. Jen Fritz, associate director of admissions, will also be on the tour, attending an event in Philadelphia on September 18. The QS MBA tour is a recruitment fair for MBA programs around the country.

Polly will also host and facilitate a New Hampshire Businesses for Social Responsibility (NHBSR) roundtable, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, September 18, in AUNE’s Community Room. The roundtable is open to all who would like to attend. And she will be on the judging panel for Best Companies to Work For in New Hampshire contest, held by New Hampshire Business magazine and Bruce Mast & Associates. The panel will tour New Hampshire businesses on September 28.
David Sobel, core faculty member in the Department of Education, is busy too. On September 15, he will give the keynote and a workshop at the Sense of Place conference at the Live and Learn Center, Lee, New Hampshire. From September 17—19, Sobel will be in Minnesota to give a community lecture and speak at teacher professional development at the Friends School of Minnesota, St. Paul; lecture and lead a design charrette at the University of Minnesota, Duluth, and visit a nature preschool at the Dodge Nature Center in St. Paul. He will speak to the annual meeting of the Connecticut Environmental Education Association in Farmington, Connecticut, on September 19.

Events

Friday, September 14
6 p.m., Keene Country Club, Keene, New Hampshire

Horace Mann Spirit of Service Awards Dinner. Contact Faith Linsky, flinsky@antioch.edu, or 283-2163, for tickets. Find more information.

Friday, September 14
11:30 a.m., Community Room

Jeff Allar, co-chair of New Hampshire Businesses for Social Responsibility, speaks kick-off event for AUNE’s Net Impact chapter. Open to MBA for Sustainability students and faculty.

Monday, September 24
11:45 a.m., Community Room

Dr. Martin La Roche, director of psychology training at the Martha Eliot Health Center, in Roxbury, Massachusetts, will give a diversity colloquium titled “A Psychotherapeutic Model to Work with Latinos.” Continuing education credits for licensed parishioners will be available from the American Psychological Association.

The class lecture, titled “What is Cultural Psychotherapy? An Emerging Conceptual and Methodological Paradigm,” is from 2 to 3.30 p.m.

Sunday, October 7
8:30 a.m, AUNE

George Leoniak, a widely recognized animal tracker and AUNE adjunct faculty will teach an all-day Animal Track and Sign Workshop. Find out more here.

Profiles

Kimberly Craighead, PhD candidate
Department of Environmental Studies
As a PhD student in the Department of Environmental Studies, Kimberly is launching a project to evaluate stress levels in pumas and bobcats in California's Bay Area. Kimberly plans to use scat-detector dogs to collect puma scat, or feces, in remote locations.

Meet Kimberly and read about her fascinating research here.